Bob Earl founded OCULUS Urban Design Landscape Architecture in 1994 in the USA. He is now the sole director of studios in Sydney and Melbourne with a close affiliation with OCULUS Washington D.C. Studio. The practice has been grounded in the complexities and dynamics of public space and the inter-relationships between program, habitation and the spontaneous public experience. Bob believes public life in our cities is enriched by the friction and tension between determined and non-determined uses and the potential of the public realm to orchestrate these tensions.
